How a student can transfer from colleges and universities

- A student from a college can transfer to UNBC simply by applying online at www.unbc.ca/apply.

Then,

Send official transcripts from all previous institutions to UNBC

UNBC – Admissions office

- Admissions office at UNBC will assess their transcripts and determine which courses transfer to UNBC.
- Academic Advisors help students find out which courses are needed to be completed at UNBC in order to graduate.

Note:

Many transfer students also need to provide a high school transcript for pre-requisite purposes, not admission purposes. This allows administration to better help them register in courses.

Who is a Transfer Student?

Students are classified as transfer student if they have 5 courses (15 credit hours) of transfer credit.

There is quite a range of what students come with and it is often a very individual process

What courses do they need to take before transferring?

1. Ideally, students transferring from a college should have completed their ;

   100 level &

   200 level course requirements.

   So that they can take the upper division courses at UNBC

2. In addition, students also get help at individual level to find out which courses transfer and which courses will be considered electives

B. Comm students Transfer?

It is recommended they complete:

1. Comm 100 (Basic course in management) and
2. all of their Math and Statistics related course requirements as the bare minimum

GPA requirement ?

Students must have 2.00 GPA to transfer to UNBC for general admission. This applies to the B. Comm program.

However, if they want to apply into programs suchs as BSW, BEd, Engineering or Health Sciences etc. then they need to consider the competitive application process that goes with those programs rather than the 2.0 minimum.
